Nurse Sues Ship Magnate's Estate for $50,000 Fund

A pretty nurse, in whose apartment he is declared to have died a year ago, brought a $50,000 suit today in superior court against the estate of Charles Francis Webb, late head of Rogers & Webb ship brokers, and the Webb Steamship Co. of Boston.

Her suit Miss Hazel K. Young of Waverley st., Roxbury, alleges that Webb failed to keep his promise to set up a $50,000 trust fund for her, on condition that she did not marry while he lived.

The suit, filed by Atty. William S. Kinney of 40 Court st., is directed against the widow, Mrs. Linda F. Webb of Kenwood st., Dorchester, as executrix of the shipping magnate's estate, and cites that Miss Young met Webb at a party in Boston in 1923.

DEVOTED LIFE TO HIM
From then until his death on November 15, 1931, she devoted her life to him, she says, in consideration of his promise to set up the trust fund for her use after he was gone.

The plaintiff declares that Webb evidenced a "great personal interest" in her throughout the eight years of their friendship, and that, although she was many times in a position to contract a favorable marriage, Webb induced her not to.

Miss Young also asserts that in his later life Webb assured her that she had already set up the

Stimson Hands Note to Envoy, Declining Longer Delay

The Debt Situation
In Washington, Secretary of State Stimson handed Ambassador Claudel the American reply to France's latest note. In the note, the United States refused the French plea for delay and declared bluntly that there would be no cancellation.

Developments in Europe indicate that both England and France will pay the money they owe the United States next Thursday.

There was no flat statement from an official source either early next week when this decision had been reached, but in both capitals the cabinets were their attention to cooling the most practical method of payment.

An official statement in London said that this matter will be considered at a cabinet meeting early next week when Prime Minister MacDonald comes back from the disarmament meeting in Geneva.

In Paris the Ministry of Finance advised the French Ambassador that the French debt is not to be considered, and "recommends" that the French government should pay the debt in the form of increased opportunities for French goods in the United States.

Frenzied Patient Subdued by Police in a Furious Battle

Scores of patients and nurses in City Hospital were terrorized today when a frenzied patient smashed furniture and battled attendants until he was finally subdued by a squad of police.

Wm. Fine, 23, of Wicket st., Dorchester, was admitted to the hospital yesterday suffering from hysteria. When transferred from ward 4 to ward 1 today he became delirious and refused to stay in the room.

When nurses attempted to keep him there, he seized a table and brandishing it chased them from the room.

When the table as a weapon he smashed the iron grill on the door and rushed into the corridor. He shouted and screamed, together with the crash of furniture he proceeded to demolish, caused a hubbub among the other patients. While attendants battled to subdue him, a call was sent for police. Two auto patrols filled with officers arrived, and after a six-minute battle managed to seize Fine who held them at bay with the leg of a table.

As police were leading him through the corridor to the street, Fine kept screaming and shouting that he would kill all the officers "broken." Doctors said Fine was suffering from maniacal depressive insanity.

Fine was removed in the Psychopathic Hospital in a straight jacket.

4-YR. TERM FOR AUTO KILLER

Joseph A. O'Connor, 32, of Hardwick in Middlesex Court today was sentenced to four years on charges following an automobile collision in which a Williams College student lost his life.

According to police, O'Connor's car struck one driving on Barclay Fleming in Memorial Drive, Cambridge, on Oct. 21. He was charged with operation as a motorist and with leaving the scene of an accident, and was held in $10,000.

A manslaughter charge brought against him a month ago in lower court was dismissed.

3-Alarm Malden Fire Routs Two Families

Two families were driven to the street today by a three-alarm fire in a three-story building in Oak Grove st., Malden, adjoining the Oak Grove depot and in a thickly settled district.

Three alarms were sounded for the fire because of the close proximity of other buildings in the neighborhood, which is partly business and partly residential.

The fire started in the basement of a chain store from an overheated furnace, spread to the first floor food shop adjoining in the store story block and then went up and through a two-family house which is partly above the store block.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel C. Miller, occupants of one apartment in the house, and their two children, a daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Anderson, with their son, Donald, Jr., fled their homes.

The flames swept the dwelling house from cellar to attic, but were confined in the stores to the basement and rear.

Damage was set at $10,000.

GETS 4 YRS. FOR WRONG KILLING

Luciano DiPietro, 50, of May st., Everett, who killed the wrong man in seeking to avenge his daughter's honor, pleaded guilty to manslaughter in Middlesex Superior Court today and was sentenced to four years in state prison.

DiPietro shot and killed Frank Leopardo, 25, believing him to have killed his daughter, Antonina, 18, from being snatched by a violent quarrel in Everett, October 31.

It was later learned that Leopardo's brother, Julio, who has since married Antonina, was the innocent cause of the shooting. DiPietro's family was not notified.

District Attorney Bishop told the court the crime was one of passion, and recommended the court accept a manslaughter plea.

U. S. READY TO AID

In the note, addressed to Ambassador Claudel, Mr. Stimson says:

"Whatever past debt payments may have played in the economic history of post-war years, it is clear that in the present conditions of world-wide depression, accompanied by a sweeping fall in prices, their weight has greatly increased, and that they have a very definite relationship to the problem of recovery, in which both the French and American people have an vital interest."

"The President of the United States is prepared, through whatever agency may seem appropriate, to co-operate with the French government in surveying the entire situation and in considering what means may be taken to bring about the restoration of stable currencies and exchange, the revival of trade and the recovery of prices."

LINKED TO ARMAMENTS

"It is believed that there are important avenues of mutual advantage which should be thoroughly explored. Such an examination does not imply cancellation."

"The government, however, has not been able to reach the conclusion that a postponement of the December 15 payment from the French government to the United States is necessary, because of its effect on the problem of recovery. Although we recognize the serious budgetary difficulties the French government is now facing, the aim involved in this case and the transfer thereof would hardly seem to be of diverting weight or difficulty in respect to world economy or the establishment of prosperity."

"The maintenance of these agreements in their operation pending case opportunity for analysis of all matters bearing upon your request for revision and its consideration by the American Congress and people still appears to us to outweigh any reasons presented for a delay."

TELLS COURT OF ANOTHER WIFE

White Plains, N. Y., Dec. 9 (AP)—Supreme Court Justice Wichester reserved decision today in the divorce case of Mrs. Frederica L. Putnam against Albert W. Putnam, now living in Worcester, Mass.

Mildred Letch, Douglas Westwood and Samuel Spence, all of Worcester, testified that Putnam told them, two years ago, a woman named Harriet Murphy was his wife. They said he confided to the last months ago that he was married to another and had not been divorced.

The Putnams were married in January, 1923, in Westchester County, N. Y.

Bill Seeks District Court for Everett

A bill, seeking to have a district court established in Everett, is being drawn up by Representative-elect Albert E. Morris of that city for presentation to the Legislature. It is the second time in as many years that such a bill has been prepared. A year ago the bill was given "leave to withdraw."

Several of this morning's newspapers, said Mr. Morris and Prime Minister MacDonald, tentatively agreed at their conference yesterday to pay the gatekeepers due in December, but that Mr. Herriot also admitted a joint session of the committee, told them he wants time to study the latest American note before deciding upon a definite course.

Collier Is Sure Beer Act Will Reach House

Collier Is Sure Beer Act Will Reach House

Collier Is Certain That His Committee Approves Measure

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—Strength for approval of a beer bill is believed by Chairman Collier to exist in the House ways and means committee.

That view was expressed by him today with continuation of testimony by beer advocates that legislation of the brew would mean capital investments of millions, and vitalizing of many industries.

Looking to early action, Collier told newspapermen that, although he had not made a committee poll, from surface indications he imagined he would be able to report out a bill.

"Secretary Mills," he said, "has accepted the committee's invitation to give all the information the treasury has on the proposal. He will appear tomorrow as the first witness and I imagine, he will discuss the financial phase of the subject."

Previously the treasury department declined to send representatives to the hearings, informing Collier it had not made a study of beer legislation.

Witnesses, who today said legislation of beer would pour millions into industry and provide employment for thousands of workers, now included:

Edward Ward of Hoboken, N. J., representing the Associated Cigar Manufacturers; D. C. Fendler of New York, of the Mack-International Motor Truck Corporation; Dr. John A. Harris of New York, representing numerous hotel and restaurant and associated organizations; Joseph Dilworth of Pittsburgh, representing the committee on industrial rehabilitation; A. W. Berensford of the National Electric Manufacturers' Association of New York; J. H. Curran of Toledo, of the Owen-Illinois Glass Company; Charles H. Lispet of New York, representing metal traders; Journals, and George P. McCabe of Washington, representing the Associated Producers of Cereal Beverages.

Hoover Hears Farmers in Aid Plea

Hoover Hears Farmers in Aid Plea

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—A delegation of five farmers, one a Negro, representing the National Farmers' Relief Conference, today was received by President Hoover, who listened for more than ten minutes to the reading of a lengthy statement containing eight demands for farm relief.

A group of 130 farmers marched up Capitol Hill, divided themselves into many delegations, and presented relief petitions to vice-president Curtis, Speaker Garner and members of the Senate and House.

While a large number waited outside, a delegation led by Lewis C. Bentley of Parkville, Mo., called on Vice-President Curtis in the Senate office building and presented a petition for a $500,000,000 federal relief fund for distressed farmers, a moratorium on agricultural debts and cancellation of back taxes for farmers in need.

MANY IN OVERHAUL

The Vice-President, as in the case of relief demands presented earlier in the week, promised to present the farmers' demands to the Senate.

Many in the delegations at the Capitol were blue overalls. Several women accompanied the marchers. The delegation calling on the vice-president sought permission to present their demands in person on the Senate floor, but Mr. Curtis refused against this.

When a little black-haired woman in the delegation, Mrs. Fred B. Chase of Washington, N. H., suggested that Amelia Earhart, the aviator, had been given such permission, the vice-president pointed out that she was after the Senate adjourned and she was allowed on the floor only a few moments to shake hands, and an opportunity which is given anyone.

CURTIS CITES RECORD

When Bentley began reading his petition, "Will you support" such and such, the vice-president interrupted him to say he had no vote or right to appear before a committee and suggested the petition be presented through him or a senator with a request that it be read to the Senate.

Mr. Curtis informed the group he had always been "anxious to help the farmer and had been instrumental in his state in having farm mortgages extended."

"I am sure that while this is a vital question," Bentley asked, "I am sure that the people would like to know how to help farmers with mortgages."

Brookline Couple Robbed on Coast

Los Angeles, Dec. 9 (AP)—While they were bidding friends goodbye today Dr. and Mrs. John M. Reitor of Brookline, Mass., were the victims of thieves. The Reitors left police that all their luggage, including five suitcases, was stolen from their automobile at the Waldorf Astoria last night.

"I want to reiterate the fact," Reitor said, "that the people of the State of Maine were away by a more or less prominent figure coming in to speak for a candidate. They knew Louis Brann and it was Louis Brann they voted for."

Brann, on the other hand, insisted that Tunney played the most important part in the campaign.

The Democratic State Committee, filing its report of expenses with the Secretary of State Cook today, shows a deficit of $3,662.96, the smallest in years, as compared with the Republican State Committee's deficit of $104,000.

Rents Are on the Run! First Down at Harvard

Harvard authorities today announced a 12 percent cut in room rents in the House Plan dormitories, affecting a majority of the students. The total of these dormitories is 10,000, and the new rates will be effective September 1.

Dean A. C. Harford explained that while students "get more for their money" in the new House Plan dormitories than in the old yard dormitories, the new dormitories demand a real "stitch."

The change follows a demand by the House Plan for a 10 percent cut in the ground that many students had been protesting. "The new House Plan" could not afford to cut the average rent per student per year is now reduced from $300 to $264.

Expensive suites, a number of which remained empty, are offered at more attractive rates. The number of medium-priced rooms is increased by 10 percent, and accommodations for 1900 men at $280 and less.

Muhlberg Asks Course in Sane Drinking

New York, Dec. 9 (INS).—Because the generation which has learned to drink alcoholic bootleg liquor may not change its drinking customs immediately is no reason the succeeding generation "should not be entirely sane about drinking."

Dr. William Muhlborg of Cincinnati, former Harvard faculty member, advanced that opinion today, advocated immediate education in "the art of drinking."

Dr. Muhlborg, here to attend meetings of the medical committee of the Life Insurance Association, said he believed the amount of alcohol imbibed should be limited to one ounce a day.

"Fixer" for Aimee's Husband Files List of Gay Expenses

Los Angeles, Dec. 9 (AP)—Take it from an indignant David L. Hutton Jr.—He'll have "stuff that will shake up the town" when he comes to court next month.

The bland, rotund baritone of Angelus Temple and husband of its pastor, Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, is due to appear January 23 in a rather involuntary encore to his celebrated "heart balm" case.

His emphatic promise of revelations came when he heard what an "ole pal" had done to him at the courthouse while he, Hutten, was on about the second tee of a golf course.

The "ole pal" was Roy Watkins, former Temple employee, who says Hutton has not paid him salary and expenses for services in the singer's behalf in a lost love suit.

In that case a brunette nurse, Myrtle St. Pierre, formerly of Lowell, Mass., said Hutton wooed her and then broke her heart by marrying the evangelist. The nurse

Only three years ago blonde-blue-eyed Gwendolyn Pinner was a "new girl" who had just been friends thrilled to learn that she had been made a "Wampas Baby Star" out in Hollywood.

My Carlie, dazzling film actress, who was selected as one of the 15 "Baby Stars" annually named by the Press Agents Association, is no longer quite so new, other than Gwendolyn, it is revealed today.

Her selection in this exclusive group of feminine movie youth means a long step up the ladder of fame, for she is the new No. 21, who was born here in 1912 and who received her first official notice in 1920 when she was selected by Meir-Golden-Mayer to play the feminine lead in "Devil Carlie" with Eddie Buzzell.

Gwendolyn is 5 feet 1 1/2 inch tall, weighs 110 pounds, and has had her hair had good parts in "Night Court," "Madame Satan" and a bit in "Grand Hotel."

The 64-year-old auto manufacturer spent about three hours in his office at Dearborn, and was reported by his associates as "feeling fine."

Wanderwell Key Lies in Past, Says 'Thatcher Colt'

Puller Quarter, famous criminologist best known under the name of Anthony Abbot, and literary "interior" of the master detective, Thatcher Colt, believes the true solution of the Wanderwell murder mystery lies in the shadowy past of the slain adventurer in the sinister corners of the world. Quarter is now story editor at Columbia Studios. His analysis of the crime follows:

By ANTHONY ABBOT

(Written Especially for and Copyrighted 1932 by International News Service, Inc.) Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 9 (INS)—To understand a crime one must understand its background.

This fundamental of detective work, practiced the world over, is the one axiom that can be applied to the murder of the so-called Capt. Walter Wanderwell on the yacht Carma in Long Beach harbor.

There is a fog of mystery over Capt. Wanderwell, his associates, his plans and above all, his past. Nothing about him seems to be genuine or frank.

The true facts about his career and recent associates, his character and his latest incredible scheme of luring a husband of girls and men to the South Sea should be explored and seen in their true light. The surface facts suggest an amazing complexity of circumstances that may never be revealed except in a novelized version of the crime.

The one theory for the crime that has been set forth—namely, that the murderer is the Carma—may, of course, be the correct one. But in general on that theory alone until it is established or demolished would be a crime of waste of time.

If that suspect is able to offer a convincing alibi, the suspicion against him will fall of their own weight, which leaves nothing. The way to the murderer of this mysterious Capt. Wanderwell is not so much by following the actual facts surrounding the immediate crime, but through a thorough reconstruction of the dead man's personality and history.

Incidentally, the yacht on which he was slain is called the Carma. The name has the same sound as the Rudinow word "karma" in the definition of their mystical law of compensation and retribution. Odd, isn't it?

MERCHANT JUST BILL DODGER

Worcester, Dec. 9—This was a very embarrassing community today. Albert Rappaport, who came from New York two weeks ago and opened a small department store was not to be found by several constables and sheriffs who arrived to replenish merchandise and by a policeman armed with a warrant securing him of darning a $136 hotel bill.

Then police announced Rappaport had been identified as a burglar who served seven years in Sing Sing, and persons who had rented department space from him joined the embarrassed group.

feared by William J. "Curley" Guy, youthful Welsh sailor arrested on suspicion of the crime yesterday, was materially strengthened, although he was still held in custody without official charge, and police said they had a new witness investigating him.

STILL TRACING GUN

The rears of Lord Montagu who, with the objects of the crew had been released after early definition as material witnesses, opened up a new angle of surmise. Officials still are seeking to trace the gun, the caliber of the missing weapon that slew Wanderwell, which Lord Montagu wanted to be found shortly before the murder.

He was charged in the immigration warrant with having owned, displayed his leave in the United States. The wanderlust-stricken

CHIEF, SAYS GUY

An inquest into Wanderwell's death opened this morning. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Delam and Ralph Dunlap, aviation mechanic for Delam, and the suspect, Guy, were in the Delam home at least until 9 p. m. Monday night. The murder occurred at about that hour 30 miles or more away.

Guy, in further detail, told his story.

"Capt. Wanderwell was the world's best shooter, but I did not kill him. I have a perfect alibi," said Guy today.

"I was working in Buenos Aires when I saw an advertisement Wanderwell had put in one of the papers to obtain members of his 'expedition'."

"Mrs. Guy and I joined the expedition, paying $300. The expedition consisted of seven men and nine women. All the women were good looking and well educated. But Wanderwell made them eat at cheap restaurants and hawk little pamphlets, telling about his travels."

"Wanderwell had queer methods. He forced us to drink with officers and call him 'sir,' telling representatives of governments of the countries we passed through, he used to say he was

Wanderwell Yacht Long Ship of Mystery Along Coast Here

A suspected narcotic smuggler in New England waters and a runner on the Pacific coast, the Carma, which was the yacht Wanderwell, proselyting international policeman, was shot Monday night by a just as spotty and shadowed as his slain owner's.

The Carma, under any other name, was just as much an erisip of mystery and for years was a knockabout, at the end of the North Atlantic, subject of many searches by the coast guard, and by her crews "because there was too much mystery about her."

She was built for the fishing banks in Mahone Bay, Nova Scotia in 1912, being 100 1/2 feet in length with beam of 25 1/2 feet and depth of 10 1/2 feet. Her tonnage without motors being 149.

She was christened Norma for the British registry and her owner was also changed. She became Chedie and was on the Coast Guard list of vessels suspected of visiting New England waters and frequenting Maine.

In 1928, in Gloucester, she was purchased by one John M. Massey, who described himself as "an old navy man" whose name then was at 209 E. Laurel st., Sierra Madre, Cal.

Associated with Massey in a venture to French registry, sailing out of St. Pierre, Miguelon, and her identity was also changed. She became Chedie and was on the Coast Guard list of vessels suspected of visiting New England waters and frequenting Maine.

She embarked upon a cruise to Australia and upon her return was rapidly searched.

On Jan. 8, 1930, Massey sold her to one H. R. Cowan of Yorda Linda, Cal., and since then she has been under constant surveillance, finally being captured with a cargo of rum.

The government seized her and Wanderwell, casting about for a ship whatever scheme he had in mind, bought her at government auction.

Wanderwell's expeditions in Buenos Aires about a year ago. Yes, he was married. His bride of about three months was an English girl—very pretty.

"They had very little money, but Mrs. Guy bought an outfit and went with us, while 'Curley' was to join us later. He met the expedition in Northern Argentina and went with us to Peru, then by boat to the Panama Canal."

"Everyone held Curley and he worked himself up to third in command, but then trouble began to brew. Curley stirred up all this—plenty of it. A paper was signed, with demands and so on—but later everyone retracted his statements but Guy and three others."

"Even after we got to Panama, Guy made more trouble, crenating reports about us and so on. So he and the three others were put off at Colon."

CAPTAIN WAS STRICT

"No," the tall, slender widow of the adventuress Wanderwell went on, "he never made any moral charges against us."

"There wasn't any in make, the captain was a very strict disciplinarian. He never allowed any sort of intimacy between the boys and girls of our expedition."

After the Wanderwells left Guy, his wife and the two others in Panama, they went to Guatemala, then to Mexico and then to California.

"I must have been about the time we arrived that Guy came here, too," the blonde, dark-eyed widow noted.

"I didn't know about any quarrels between him and the captain, but it does seem queer that he should follow us that way."

"As for captain and myself, we never had quarrels or trouble, and there was no trouble between us over Curley."

DROGGED HER BY HEELS, WIFE CHARGES

Among the scores of petitioners who sought divorce in Suffolk probate court today was Mrs. May Braude Lipson of Revere, who claimed her husband was cruel to her.

Mrs. Lipson married Samuel Lipson, of Quincy, in August, 1931, and everything was serene until last March.

"I told my husband I was going to have a baby, and he said, 'It's your baby, and you can pay for it.' He thought I had some money, and made a dive for my pocketbook. I beat him to it, and he twisted my arm until I dropped it.

"The next day he said he was sick of seeing me around the house, and I went to my mother's. 'Last May, he went to bed and I sat on the edge of the bed and told him I had to have some money. He jumped up, grabbed me by the legs and pulled me out of the room, across the hall and into the living room.' She was granted a decree and the right to remove her maiden name of May Braude.

HOOPER PLANS 4 NEW "LITTLE CABINET" JOBS

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—In a bulky message, President Hoover today placed before Congress a series of recommendations for partially reorganizing the Federal Government by reshaping 56 executive branches in a new pattern and reducing the number of independent agencies by 15.

The mass of proposals called for the creation of four new posts in the "little cabinet." The new titles would be assistant secretary of the interior for public works; of the interior for education, health and recreation; of agriculture for land utilization; and of commerce for merchant marine.

Under them would be consolidated of various bureaus and agencies now spread throughout the government, although often conducting similar work. Simultaneously with the outlining of this interwoven plan, the President submitted 11 executive orders for carrying it into effect. This Shaker Uses Teeth for Toes

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 9 (AP)—One of the secluded North woods, where only such a thing could happen, came the story today of a Finnish shaker who gave teeth for toes.

Fred Carr, himself a shaker, vouchers for the story. Carr said they found the Finn, trapped by a fallen tree and badly frozen. They took him to a hospital by train and three doctors insisted on amputating his toes.

The Finn, said Carr, refused permission for the operation and stole away from the hospital back to the woodland shack. There his toes were infected and he died. Carr said then himself. He stumps healed up, Carr said, and the Finn is back on his traveling route, with a small service of a croquet saw inserted in each boot heel. "That," Carr explained, "is how he does it."

Everything in Washington is as mixed as a jigsaw puzzle in an earthquake. The red Republicans are now wet. The wet newsmen are now dry demagogues.

There's only one official who hasn't actually cross-crossed his constituents. He's the skittish saddlehorse type who stands for nothing and runs for everything.

He's the kind of faithful servant who holds down his desk with his feet. Like the pussy cat with fur as warm if you don't tease him he'll do you no harm.

His services are worth a king's ransom. Which at the present rate of revolutions is about 12 for a nickel.

But he never made up a single promise. And he kept it.

25 PER CENT OF VETS TO LOSE BY U. S. CUT

Investigation at the Veterans Bureau in Boston today indicated that the latest order from Washington to purge disability allowances might result in eliminating many veterans from the compensation roll.

Some estimated that 25 per cent of the awarded 11A cases would be dropped throughout New England, but more conservative estimates placed the figure at 25 per cent.

It was generally agreed that nervous disorder, hernia and flat feet cases would be slashed the heaviest.

There are 15,000 veterans on the disability allowance list in Massachusetts and close to 20,000 in the New England district.

A review of disability allowances cases ordered by Gen. Frank T. Hines in charge of the Veterans Administration at Washington, has been under way at the Boston bureau since Dec. 1. It promises to be a slow process, to last many weeks.

Excepting late cases there will be no re-examination of veterans physically. It was explained by officials of the bureau and of the American Legion that the review has been looked for six months.

SIZE TO $10 A MONTH

On a report by local physicians were expected to be the hardest hit in the new screening.

Allowance run all the way from $10 to $10 a month according to the disability. Some veterans claimed allowances by combining percentages due to a combination of ailments. Some of these may be rejected.

Hines Hits at Demands of Able Veterans

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—Frank T. Hines, veterans administrator, today told a joint congressional committee he could "see no reasonable justification" for a veteran whose disability is not connected with active duty "anybody in the Government for aid when he is able to provide for himself."

Hines appeared before the group studying aid to veterans, legislation and possible economies. The group was crowded with representatives of veterans organizations opposing any changes in existing laws.

He put before the committee a national policy of veterans' relief, resting on equality in benefits, consideration of the degree of disability, and financial need for government aid.

The policy Hines continued, should extend aid first to those having disabilities incurred in or aggravated by military service.

"Second," he continued, "to those who, while not connected with disability directly attributable to military service, have become through age or disability, unable to carry on for themselves."

LEADERS RALLY
MORE ACTIVE

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—Leaders rallied in the last half hour on the New York Stock Exchange today as the trading became more active. Pivotal shares rose to new highs in the session, shaking off earlier recessionary tendencies.

Oil and steel stocks were filled tonnage report for November. The report was expected to show a decline, led to pressure on the corporation's preferred stock, which slumped more than 2 points.

COPERS TURN LOWER

Refined copers ran into difficulty, anticipating a price dividend reduction from $5 to $3, and steadied when the news was out. Copers turned downward on the deal, however, when it was learned that even though this had been foreseen by the management of the company, a reactionary tone after early firmness and losses in the leaders ran to a point, and more before rally.

Sentiment in brokerage quarters has grown considerably more cheerful in the past few days, but most bullish inclined traders acknowledge that they are not sure whether an upward impetus will come from the market or from the earnings and that corporate earnings are holding close to the low levels.

Despite the situation of the railroads, brokers report some investment buying of shares of a few of the strongest roads. Chemicals have also been attracting some attention.

HISTORICAL AND LITERARY TREAT

The lawless Minna Flukewell in her prime.

While going through some old unpaid bills Congressman Horace Walpole finds upon a variety of letters which make up the strange romance which existed between him and an admirer, Mrs. Minna Flukewell, prominent barrister's queen. They never met, but carried on a correspondence for several years, until Mrs. Flukewell fell off the glass runway into the lap of a Frenchman, whom she later married. These letters constitute a fascinating human document, full of whimsy, pathos and the biting cleverness of character, as the beloved Personality Congressman.

Dear Mr. Frisky:
Now, if you've got work to do, just tell us to scram.

Dear Mrs. Flukewell:

'Lame Duck' Defiance

It Calls for Protest From the People

It has required but brief reflection upon the vote of the House of Representatives on prohibition repeal to bring home to the people a realization of the INSULT AND DEFIANCE they have suffered at the hands of a "LAME DUCK" MINORITY.

Are the 100 Republican and 44 Democratic Congressmen who made up the minority, which was just sufficient to deprive the resolution of the necessary two-thirds vote, so deluded as to think they can "get away" with anything so STUPID, so CRUDE and so RAW?

Have these benighted Congressmen, most of whom are under a JUDGMENT OF REJECTION BY THE PEOPLE, the hardihood to think they can DEFY AMERICAN PUBLIC OPINION and not FEEL THE FORCE OF THE PEOPLE'S WRATH?

No mandate so clear, definite, non-sectional and unanimous was ever before laid upon Congress as the mandate to rid the country of the prohibition amendment.

For years the sentiment for its abolition has been steadily mounting until this year it became an irresistible wave, carrying all opposition and making resistance unthinkable.

The people will not allow the matter to rest where the "Lame Ducks" have for the moment put it. If not in this Congress, certainly in the next one this question of repeal must come up again. There is no escaping the public will.

In the meantime, every man or woman who is a constituent of one of these faithless Congressmen should make known his or her resentment.

Every responsible official of the Republican and Democratic parties alike should protest in his official capacity, speaking on behalf of the great political party to which he belongs, and whose platform has been repudiated by these faithless representatives.

Let the anger of the people find voice.

LETTERS OF PROTEST, TELEGRAMS OF PROTEST and RESOLUTIONS OF PROTEST should be sent and issued to the "INFAMOUS 144" who DEFIED THE ACTION OF THEIR PARTY, DISREGARDED THEIR PARTY PLATFORMS, IGNORED the action of their PARTY CONVENTIONS and DEFIED THE WISHES, THE WILL AND THE PURPOSES OF THE PEOPLE.

More Nuisance Taxes

Mr. Long's Persistence

The scheme to impose special excise and sales taxes upon tobacco and bottled beverages has been placed upon the front doorstep of the Massachusetts Legislature again.

Tax Commissioner Long, its author, can be said to be tenacious and consistent, if not logical.

The tobacco industry is now heavily burdened by special imposts, so heavy they have no counterpart in this country, unless it be the indefensibly high and ramified taxes levied upon the automotive industry.

The effect of laying a special tax upon the bottled-beverage industry will be either to ruin the soft-drink manufacturers in this State or to drive them into other States where no such taxes have been laid or contemplated.

If we are to have a sales tax, as we should have, let it be a national manufacturers' sales tax to be assessed at a nominal and indiscriminatory rate without playing favorites.

The country is now held back from a more speedy return to prosperous conditions by the vexatious nuisance taxes which unjustly select a few industries to hold the bag.

Moreover, Mr. Long's idea that the seven per cent tax on tobacco and bottled beverages should be collected to pay the cost of old-age assistance is a pretty thin excuse for it. There is no more adequate reason for it than to say that a tax upon whiskey should be used to defray the cost of the schools. The scheme is to employ the popularity of two fine institutions like the schools and old-age pensions to lay unpopular taxes.

We want more efficiency and economy in government, not more taxes. Government has made a nuisance of itself by nuisance taxes. A more equitable and efficient government to pay and easy to collect, is sounder than Mr. Long's proposal because it does not penalize single industries to the advantage of others.

Below the Peat Bogs

A group of Harvard savants have embarked on a five-year study of the Irish Free State, and it is pleasing to learn that they won't come back with a lot of the usual dull rubbish on tariff, hydraulic projects, farmers' subsidy, bacon exports, tenancy laws or banking.

They are going in for spine work. They have already dug up truck loads of animal bones, and it is pleasing to learn that they won't come back with a lot of the usual dull rubbish on tariff, hydraulic projects, farmers' subsidy, bacon exports, tenancy laws or banking.

They are going in for spine work. They have already dug up truck loads of animal bones, and it is pleasing to learn that they won't come back with a lot of the usual dull rubbish on tariff, hydraulic projects, farmers' subsidy, bacon exports, tenancy laws or banking.

Professor Hooton, the anthropologist in charge, announces that the researches will be correlated in an attempt "to produce some sort of scientific interpretation of the Irish nation."

B. C. remains, however, can't shed much light on what's what and when in Anno Domini 1932.

Anthropologists really dig because of the charm and surprises inherent in digging. It seems to get more fun out of their work than do almost any other scientists.

In anthropology you never know what will be turned up next.

This Bacterial Age

Aside from radium and a few other substances, that tiny bottle of yeast cells owned by a Milwaukee brewery must be the most valuable small portion of anything in the United States.

Dr. Hugo Rohde, its custodian, says it "is pickled brewers' yeast that money can't buy."

It isn't just yeast, but it will, if you know. One gathers that the first cell of it was brought here in 1881 from Copenhagen. This was just twenty-one years after Pasteur made his famous discovery that yeast, which is just a lot of microbes, causes alcoholic fermentation.

To steer a barrel of beer now in the right direction it must be started right by the proper bacterium. What makes beer too light or too dark, sweet or sour, acid or alkaline, well ordered or the reverse, used to be just chance. All kinds of bacteria may muscle in and raise hob. It's all a matter of yeast cells. This is the reason a lousy brew expert in the village champion one season and be filled with chagrin in the next. A five-million dollar brewery can't afford to take such chances as it takes a chemist.

An Enthusiastic Audience

Lame Ducks, and Drys with flaming eyes

Ablaze with exultation—

They whoop with joy as they destroy

The mandate of a nation.

The ringing cheers of racketeers

Are rattling roof and rafter:

The bootleg boys express their joys

By doubling up with laughter.

The hi-jack crew breaks out anew

With roars of keen enjoyment.

Loudly they cheer for bootleg beer—

It keeps them in employment.

It helps the mugger, it helps the thugs.

It helps the pistol toters

And there is fun for everyone

Except the nation's voters.

Thoughts While Strolling

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Thoughts while strolling: "No. 21" is the hot-speak-spot of the moment. Rex Weber, small-time ventriloquist, who ran away with the revue "Americans." Patsy Kelly's so funny eye. Dave Hampton is a ringer for Tommy Guinan. Major Bowes looks as you might expect, kind, dependable.

Jack Clifford now has snow-white hair. One-word description of Milton Berle—grinny. That free strong-man exhibit in the Hollywood theater building that inspired the play "Eily Turner." What the banking world needs is a Mussolini. Dick Berlin, an Oakland, Cal., boy, who made good in the city.

I never trust people who begin "I'm a Frank." That's a snappy weekly Rob Wagner gets out in Beverly. No pay for contributors, many of whose are top liners, but they write what they please. One of my favorite people—Gene Crawford. Dick Berlin, an Oakland, Cal., boy, who made good in the city.

Whatever comes of Ziegfeld's "Follies" will be a success. The housing Murray's Roman Gardens passes to forgotten things. What might? What daze? Otto Carmichael has the head of a Roman senator. And a double Roman at that. Al Woods, despite vicissitudes, still chirps "Lo, Sweetheart."

It's nutty to talk to one's self, but heaps of fun. Arthur Tracy is a loud-necktie boy, too. Frieda Inescort makes me think of Rosette's "Blessed Damsel." What's this—a crush? Dorothea Lee, the Chili Princess. Nobody looks more trendy than C. D. Gibson, dressed up.

Walter Chrysler, Jr., has incubated a dining-out fad possible for the East side. A Gothic-lettered aura has sent out a Gothic-lettered aura. Out of a 2000 list, 500 have resigned and 800 are from six months to two years behind in dues.

Waiting for traffic lights to change, today in front of Helen Gould's avenue mansion, I picked up a small slip, likely torn from some love letter. In masculine hand, it read: "My life has become more and more a matter of affection for you—Blair."

Many exclusive clubs have reached the zero hour in financing. One hot-city-toy in the social gynecoscope has sent out a Gothic-lettered aura warning to members: "We can come out as a club but six more weeks. Out of a 2000 list, 500 have resigned and 800 are from six months to two years behind in dues."

Words few at times across the board. Hark charges no one meant were funny.

"Tut, tut," the gentle mother said. "We talked not so when we were young."

What one averred the next denied. Often a wordy feud arose Within the sheltering walls of home between the stubborn ayes and noes.

But when the skies above were black and trouble came to pay the bill, The family rose united then to share the cares of one and all.

Small differences were forgot, face front unto their cause they stood,

And in the joy of kinship true they labored for the common good.

Marriage and Divorce

WIFE! I divorce increasing HAY.

If you were going to draw up an ideal set of marriage and divorce laws, what would it be?

At present, we have 48 sets of such laws in these United States. All different. Most of them conflicting. As a result, marriages which are legal in one state are illegal in another. Children who are legitimate in one part of the country are illegitimate in another. And in some parts, they are illegitimate in all.

Moreover, the side-step of spiritual enthusiasm. On the 16th of France recently a juvenile Romeo, after his third Blue Blazer, showed me a radiogram just received. It read: "Your girl friend is squibby but cheerio anyway—Fanny Face." He admitted they were to marry, when he got back.

The same youth before landing, confessed: "If I don't ease off on this Scotch, I'll be putting ships into empty gin bottles."

These tender relations—I may add—were not inspired by the mug who, snipping my picture from a Seattle paper, wrote under it: "Sex Takes a Holiday."

Each year this situation becomes worse. Now it is proposed by the National Divorce Reform League (185 Monmouth Street, Brooklyn, New York) to have a general house-cleaning and make a uniform marriage-divorce program for all America.

The League makes no reference to "separate maintenance"—what do you think of it? Do you think that a wife should be able to obtain legal separation, which compels her husband to support her although he does not live with her, and which denies him the right to remarriage?

If the job were given to you, what laws, if any, would you devise? Or would you abolish ALL laws and make marriage indissoluble on any grounds?

Copyright, 1932, for the Boston Evening American.

Do you believe that alimony is ever justified, save in cases where the wife has become crippled or very old during the marriage? Should a young, healthy woman with children be awarded any money save first year of separation?

The Budget Message; A Rash Promise;

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other historical works, now writer for the Boston Evening American.

THE BUDGET MESSAGE OF

to work. His plan for the beginning, which has fallen pitifully below the needs of the situation.

Only a maverick "art of the money" agent to prevent starvation and death from exposure has come from private purse. His plan includes expenditures by states, municipalities, and "these have, in most instances, about exhausted. If they have not completely exhausted, it is a miracle. But the national government should be spared the annoyance!"

There is another principle to which many others subscribe—that in a human crisis such as this, where millions are threatened with starvation, through no fault of their own, the national government positively must act.

President Willing to "Co-operate"

Meanwhile the President asks for the "cooperation" of Congress in effecting the savings and in raising the revenue. He proposes that he carry with it the presumption that he is willing and anxious to "co-operate" with Congress to the same end. And means that when the Congress, responding to the popular demand, so impressive in the debate, shall have passed the Volstead Act to get a tax on beer, the President will continue to think highly of co-operation.

For this will mean not merely a "co-operation" with Congress but with the American people who have shown in their plain, to "be" in revenue.

A Matter for Congress to Determine

The debtor nations, the leading ones, will meet their payments on the "cooperation" of Congress in effecting the savings and in raising the revenue. He proposes that he carry with it the presumption that he is willing and anxious to "co-operate" with Congress to the same end. And means that when the Congress, responding to the popular demand, so impressive in the debate, shall have passed the Volstead Act to get a tax on beer, the President will continue to think highly of co-operation.
